

Grandparents day

This group, held on a Saturday, will allow grandparents whose grandchildren are in long-term fostering or who have been adopted through the care system the opportunity to reflect on what this means to them and, perhaps, the wider family. It will offer a safe, confidential space for grandparents to meet with others who have had similar experiences and to talk through their impact.

Issues that could be explored are:

- Grief at the loss of the child
- Guilt – from perhaps feeling unable to offer a grandchild a home
- Anger – perhaps with the birth parent, or possibly with the adoption system for not approving you as adoptive parents
- Confusion and disbelief that your family has become caught up in such a complex situation
- Issues of contact with the child(ren)
